CLASS ALLEGATIONS

50. Plaintiffs bring the Second, Third, Sixth and Seventh Claims for Relief on their own behalf and on behalf of a class of persons pursuant to Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

51. Plaintiffs assert these claims on behalf of all persons who worked for Cornelia Day Resort and who were not paid full wages for all time worked at any time from January 1, 2004 until the entry of judgment in this case (the "Class Period")

(the "Class").

52. For purposes of plaintiffs' Fourth Claim for relief, as set forth below, Plaintiffs seek to certify a sub-class of all persons who worked for Cornelia Day Resort and who were participants in its 401(k) Plan, at any time from January 1, 2004 until the entry of judgment in this case (the "401(k) Sub-Class Period")

(the "401(k) Sub-Class").

53. For purposes of plaintiffs' Fifth Claims for relief, as set forth below, plaintiffs seek to certify a sub-class of all persons who worked for Cornelia Day Resort and who were participants in its group health insurance plan, at any time from January 1, 2004 until the entry of judgment in this case (the "Health Plan Sub-Class Period").

(the "Health Plan Sub-Class"). Hereinafter, the Class, 401(k) Sub-Class, and Health Plan Sub-Class, shall at times collectively be referred to as the "Rule 23 Class."

54. The individuals comprising the Rule 23 Class are so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable.

55. Although the precise number of such Rule 23 Class members is not currently known, and facts concerning such precise number are within the sole control of defendants, upon information and belief, there are approximately at least 150 members of the Class during the applicable Class Period, 401(k) Sub-Class Period, and Health Plan Sub-Class Period.

56. Defendants have acted or have refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the Rule 23 Class, thereby making appropriate final injunctive relief or corresponding declaratory relief with respect to the Rule 23 Class as a whole.

57. There are questions of law or fact common to the Rule 23 Class that predominate over any questions affecting only individual members. Questions of law and fact common to the Class which predominate over questions solely affecting individual members of the Class include the following:

- a. whether defendants violated NYLL, Article 19, §§ 650 et seq., and the supporting New York State Department of Labor regulations, as alleged herein;
- b. whether defendants failed to pay plaintiffs and the Class the applicable minimum wage;
- c. Whether defendants failed to pay plaintiffs and the Class all wages owed to them pursuant to NYLL, §191;
- d. Whether defendants imposed unlawful deductions against the wages of plaintiffs and the Class in violation of NYLL, §193;
- e. Whether defendants violated their fiduciary duties under ERISA with respect to its 401(k) retirement plan;
- f. Whether defendants violated their fiduciary duties under ERISA with respect to its group health insurance plan
- g. Whether the 401(k) Sub-Class members are entitled to contributions under defendants' 401(k) retirement plan;

- h. Whether the Health Plan Sub-Class members are entitled to contributions under defendants' group health insurance plan;
- i. Whether the 401(k) and Health Plan Sub-Class members are entitled to injunctive relief under ERISA;
- j. Whether defendants' policies of failing to pay Class members the amounts required under the NYLL was instituted willfully or with reckless disregard of the law; and
- k. The nature and extent of class-wide injury and the measure of damages for those injuries.

58. The claims of the representative plaintiffs are typical of the claims of the Class and Sub-Classes. The representative plaintiffs have suffered the same type of financial losses as other Class and Sub-Class members in this case. Plaintiff and the Rule 23 Class members work or have worked for defendants and were subject to the same policies or practices. Plaintiff and the Rule 23 Class members are entitled to the same statutory rights under the NYLL to be paid for all hours worked, and to be paid at least the minimum wage

59. The representative party plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Rule 23 Class. There is no conflict between plaintiffs and the Rule 23 Class members.

60. A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy, particularly in the context of wage and hour litigation in which individual plaintiffs lack the financial resources to prosecute such claims effectively against a corporate defendant. The expense and burden of protracted litigation make it impracticable for Class members to seek redress individually for defendants' unlawful conduct. Moreover, if individuals were required to institute separate actions concerning the same issues raised by this action, the Court would be unduly burdened and the risk of inconsistent rulings, which might be dispositive of legal issues affecting nonparties, would be contrary to justice.

COLLECTIVE ACTION ALLEGATIONS

61. Plaintiffs bring the First Claim for Relief, which alleges violations of the FLSA, on behalf of themselves and similarly situated persons who have worked at defendants during the last three years, and who elect to opt-in to this action (the "FLSA Collective").

62. Defendants are liable under the FLSA for, among other things, failing to compensate plaintiffs properly. Upon information and belief, there are many similarly situated current and former employees of defendants who have not been properly paid in violation of the FLSA, and who would benefit from the issuance of a court-supervised notice of the instant action and the opportunity to join the instant action. Those similarly situated persons are known to defendants, are readily identifiable, and can be located through the use of defendants' records. Notice should be sent to the FLSA Collective pursuant to 29 U.S.C. § 216(b).

CLASS-WIDE FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

63. At all times material hereto, defendants owned, operated and managed the Cornelia Day Resort, a full service day spa and salon, located on Fifth Avenue in New York New York.

64. Plaintiffs and Class members were employed as staff employees at the Cornelia Day Resort.

65. Plaintiffs and Class Members include, among others, massage therapists, aestheticians, housekeepers, nail technicians, butlers/servers, colorists, and other employees.

66. During the employment of plaintiffs and Class members, and during the month of January 2009 through in or about early February 2009, defendants failed to pay plaintiffs and Class members some or all of the compensation they were owed for services rendered to Cornelia's customers.

67. In some instances, defendants actually issued paychecks, which were returned by the payor bank for insufficient funds.

68. Among the compensation withheld from plaintiffs and Class Members was hourly wages, salary, commissions, and tips (hereinafter collectively referred to as "wages").

69. On or about February 6, 2009, defendant Chakra LLC began operating and managing the Cornelia Day Resort.

70. To date, Chakra LLC continues to operate the spa and salon under the name "Cornelia Day Resort," and at the facility in which it was located prior to Chakra LLC's acquisition.

71. Upon information and belief, as of May 1, 2009, Cornelia Day Resort will be renamed "Spa Chakra Fifth Avenue."

72. Although several of plaintiffs and Class members resigned prior to Chakra LLC's acquisition of the business, some remained employed, with the expectation that they would be compensated for pay periods in which they had not received full wages.

73. Upon information and belief, at all times material hereto, Chakra LLC had notice of the fact that plaintiffs and Class members had not received their full wages and in some cases had received no wages for pay periods preceding Chakra LLC's acquisition of the Cornelia Day Resort.

74. At some point, Chakra LLC provided a memorandum to employees stating, among other things, the following: "If you were not paid by Cornelia 5th Ave LLC for any or all of the month of January, you will need to file for unemployment for that time period."

75. Chakra LLC sought to convince employees that they should be seeking unemployment insurance compensation for periods in which they did, in fact, work, but did not receive full or any wages.

76. In addition, Chakra LLC notified employees of the following "Cash Advances" program it had decided to implement:

CASH ADVANCES:

NO EMPLOYEES WILL BE PAID FOR THE PAY PERIOD OF 1/18/09 to 1/31/09:

For those of you who need immediate assistance, Spa Chakra is offering cash advances of up to $500 for part-time and up to $1,000 for full-time employees. These advances will be credited back to Spa Chakra in small increments off the next eight paychecks, until repaid in full. In addition, payroll will be processed weekly for the next eight weeks. Please fill out the request form and give it to Kelly. It will be processed on Wednesday.

EMPLOYEES WHO WERE EITHER NOT PAID OR WERE NOT PAID IN FULL FOR THE PAY PERIOD OF 1/4/09 to 1/17/09:

Spa Chakra will offer immediate cash advances up to the amount you were not paid for this period. Please fill out the request form and give it to Kelly to receive your check. These are available immediately.

77. Chakra LLC did not pay any outstanding wages owed to plaintiffs and Class members.

FACTS RELATING TO 401(k) PLAN SUB-CLASS

78. During their employment, plaintiffs Bulica, Cacace, Cocinescu, Ionescu, O'Leary, Santos, Sandu, and Villanova, and 401(k) Sub-Class members, were participants in Cornelia LLC's employee benefit plans, including its 401(k) retirement plan.

79. Throughout their employment, the 401(k) Sub-Class members elected to defer portions of their wages to the defendants' 401(k) retirement plan.

80. Upon information and belief, defendants used the 401(k) Sub-Class members' monies for their own purposes, and not for the benefit of the 401(k) Sub-Class members.

81. Upon information and belief, defendants used the 401(k) Sub-Class members' monies to fund defendants' business and to cover operating and other costs.

82. Several of the 401(k) Sub-Class members have attempted to withdraw vested monies maintained in Cornelia LLC's 401(k) plan, based upon, among other things, financial hardship, or to pay for out-of-pocket health-related expenses.

83. Despite their attempts to recover these amounts, the 401(k) Sub-Class members have been denied access to their monies.

84. Upon information and belief, the 401(k) Sub-Class members were denied access to their vested funds due to the misconduct of defendants.

FACTS RELATING TO HEALTH PLAN SUB-CLASS

85. During their employment, plaintiffs Villanova, Cocinescu, DeGiorgio, Redman, Wells and Health Plan Sub-Class Members, were enrolled in Cornelia LLC's group health insurance plan.

86. Indeed, Health Plan Sub-Class members contributed to the premium charged for health insurance benefits, through payroll deductions.

87. In or about the Fall of 2008, and despite that and Health Plan Sub-Class members had suffered deductions from their paychecks to cover a portion of the premium charges for health insurance coverage, Aetna Health Insurance canceled the group health plan applicable to Cornelia Day Resort employees as a result of nonpayment of premiums.

88. Upon information and belief, defendants Cornelia LLC, Cornelia International, Aidekman and Sackoff, failed to remit the employer's portion of the health insurance premium as well as that portion of premium deducted from the paychecks of Health Benefit Sub-Class members.

89. Although health insurance coverage was eventually reinstated, some Health Plan Sub-Class members incurred substantial health-related expenses as a result of defendants' failure to maintain and properly administer the group health insurance plan.
